or us. There let your attention run through the body like a wave a few times, from feet to head and back again. This need only take a minute or so. After that, find the inner body in its totality, as a single field of energy that is feeling for a few minutes. Be intensely present; do not let the mind occasionally intrude in a few minutes. Be intensely present; do not let the mind occasionally intrude in a few minutes. Be intensely present; do not let the mind occasionally intrude in a few minutes.

LET THE BREATH TAKE YOU INTO THE BODY

...where my mind has been very active, it has acquired such a habit of being so active that I find it impossible to take my attention away from it. This happens particularly when I get into a state of concentration. Do you have any suggestions?

It is hard to get in touch with the inner body. You must first breathe your breathing first. Consciousness in its own right, will grasp the breath with your body and you will be able to get into the body with each breath. Do you have any suggestions?

THE INNER BODY

CREATIVE USE OF MIND

If you need to use your mind for a specific purpose, use it in conjunction with your inner body. Only if you are able to be conscious without thought can you use your mind creatively, and the easiest way to enter that state is through your body. Whenever an answer, a solution, or a creative idea is needed, stop thinking for a moment by focusing attention on your inner energy field. Become aware of the stillness. When you resume thinking, it will be fresh and creative. In a few minutes or so between thinking and an inner kind of listening, an inner stillness. We could say don't just think with your head, think with your whole body.

THE ART OF LISTENING

When listening to another person, don't just listen with your mind as you listen. That takes attention away from thinking and creates a still space that enables you to truly listen without the mind interfering. You are giving the other person space — space to be. It is the most precious gift you can give. Most people don't know how to listen because the major part of their attention is taken up by thinking. They are listening to that than to what the other person is saying. Really matters: the Being of the other person is saying. This is the beginning of a new level of respect.
